PERSONAL PROFILE

Having worked in air freight industry for the last 7 years I gained valuable experience in international transportation of goods. The industry is challenging and interesting. Every day we have various issues to resolve which requires excellent problem-solving skills. In doing so I always tried to use the most pragmatic approach and utilise the newest tools available. With the development of IT, its penetration in every aspect of our lives is undeniable. And I believe that staying on the cutting edge of technological innovation opens new opportunities both for business and personal development. With keen interest in IT I could not have passed by the opportunity you present.

I am a very quick learner, which is backed up by my tenacity and strong desire to succeed. I have great organisational skills which are largely owing to having been working in a warehouse, where maintaining focus and attention to details is crucial. This has considerably improved my teamwork skills. Willing to take responsibility not only for myself but also for my peers and team members in a highly dynamic environment to meet deadlines in a calm and efficient manner while maintaining high standards, I proved a well-disciplined individual, who remarkably deals with adversity.

In my free time I like to dabble in various programming languages. While fluently using the widely known tools of Word, Excel and Outlook I tried using other technological stacks available to help automate my daily routine, one of each is Python, which helped me with parsing Excel files and automate some tasks.

I hope that my positive attitude to work coupled with my passion for learning will help me build a successful career.
